Atomos enters licence agreement with RED.com LLC

Highlights:

- Licence agreement entered into with RED
- Resolves risk identified in prospectus

Global video technology company Atomos Limited (ASX:AMS, “Atomos” or the “Company”) is pleased to announce it has entered into a royalty based licence agreement with RED.com LLC (“RED”) covering certain RED patents and the recording and/or playback of two video codec standards implemented by certain Atomos products.

Based in Irvine, California and with studios in Hollywood, RED is a world leading producer of professional digital cinema cameras which are used in thousands of the best cinema, television and music video productions globally.

The Company is satisfied that the introduction of the licence agreement will be immaterial to earnings and therefore remains confident in its ability to meet its prospectus forecasts.
